

EMA PARTNERS INTERNATIONAL ELECTS NEW LEADERSHIP TEAM
November 5, 2007, for immediate release

A new leadership team has been elected by EMA Partners International, the retained executive search firm.

At the recent EMA global Partners meeting in Barcelona, Spain, Bill Yacullo was elected Chairman of the firm. He is based in Chicago, and succeeds Javier Guillen, who is based in Barcelona.

James Douglas was also elected Vice-Chairman of the firm. He is based in London, and succeeds Bill Yacullo, who is now Chairman.

A new functional leadership team was also elected to support them. “This team will help to lead and support the continuous improvement of client work that EMA Partners delivers on six continents” said Yacullo. “It also reflects, and will build on the leadership of Javier Guillen and others during the last two years”
